OBJECTIVE

This joint session of CA's Working Group on Adaptation and Financing will look at how cities can finance their ambitions to adapt to a changing climate. Good practices will showcase how cities have tackled this challenge in cooperation with their stakeholders via different financial instruments like crowdfunding and the involvement of the private sector. Together with the WG members, in a panel discussion with interactive elements, underlying barriers and replicable solutions to maintain liveable cities, protect cities' natural environments and speed up the just resilience transition will be discussed.
